

Why renting is so smart; so easy

Whether your current project is simple or more major, renting lets you get on with the job quickly and efficiently.

1. Your nearby rental store is like a giant garage filled with useful tools you don't need to buy.
2. Let professionals handle – and pay for – tool maintenance and upkeep.
3. Get the exact tool you need rather than trying to “make do” with something inferior or less powerful. A “hobby” concrete breaker will never do as good a job as a professional tool; it'll take much longer, too.
4. Breakers, core drills, trenchers, concrete saws, pressure washers, garden machinery – the list of professional-grade tools you can rent to get your projects done more quickly and easily just goes on and on.
5. You won't have to worry about storing tools or risk them becoming obsolete.
6. Your local rental store can often offer useful tips on getting the job done effectively.
7. You'll not only have just the right tool at just the right time, but will also be using high quality, commercial-grade equipment that you wouldn't normally buy for yourself.
8. Most do-it-yourself construction, home projects and remodels are only done once, so why go to the expense of long-term tools for short term projects?
9. Your neighbours can't borrow or damage or lose your tools.
10. Unless you'll use the tools often, it makes sense to rent, because using professional equipment is always more effective, quicker and satisfying than using the DIY equivalent.
